SUBJECT News From Private Informants

MAN: Jack Anderson, nationally syndicated columnist, investigative reporter, considered the most respected journalist in America. Jack Anderson not only covers the news, he uncovers it. Let him tell you in his own words about his new confidential Washington newsletter.

JACK ANDERSON: Hello. I'm Jack Anderson.

I can't publish everything I know, but for years I've written private letters to friends about what goes on here in Washington, about the people in power, about what goes on behind closed doors. The most intriguing information is often too sensitive, too private to appear in my column.

Well, now I've decided to share this inside information with you in my new confidential Washington Letter, information I get from classified cable traffic, from private informants in the Pentagon, the White House, the CIA, vital news you won't find on nightly TV or in your local paper. In each issue you get my personal predictions on the probable course of events here in Washington, on Wall Street, and other world power centers, advanced warnings about events that will inevitably affect you and your business, information reserved for subscribers only.

MAN: Jack Anderson's Washington Letter is now available through this special TV trial offer. Order today. We'll send you the current issue of Jack Anderson's Washington Letter absolutely free, and we'll enter a four-month trial subscription in your name at the low rate of just $16.
